EXPERIENCE

FRONT-END/UI DEVELOPER

University of South Carolina | 2010 - Present

- Sole developer responsible for the complete redevelopment of the university's first responsive website which now gains tremendous traffic and boasts efficient navigation. Collaborated closely with the designer and back-end developers to create a consistent experience.
- Help to implement the University's calendar and map tools by working closely with our third-party vendors.
- Add new components and enhancements using a modular approach.
- Ensure the University's website is performing at optimal speeds and has parallel browser experiences using progressive enhancement while also appealing to our audiences.
- Changed the mindset around accessibility by putting the focus on it from the onset of a project.
- Manage the University's Google analytics account and event tracking. Led the implementation to switch to Google Tag Manager.
- Collaborate with the team to build interactive and engaging homepages and story pages.
- Maintain the University's email templates.
